Indoor pool and games room needed

Metropolis Architecture Ltd, a progressive architecture and design consultancy network, providing a high quality design and ecology driven service for their clients, provided several alterations to this large private dwelling with an attached coach house in Berkswell.

Much of the internal ground floor areas was rationalised and improved and several new rooms were added, including an indoor games room and swimming pool.

Mark Guyat of Metropolis Architecture explains:

“The client wanted to alter the existing real fire so that it became a 2 sided fireplace visible from both the indoor pool and the games room. Calculations showed this could only be done with help of a chimney fan system. By installing one of their chimney fan systems, exodraft were able to ensure the client got the fireplace that they wanted.”

exodraft recommended a fan system suitable for a solid fuel fireplace.
